Invitation To The Prom

Come on Juniors and Seniors! Why not plan NOW to attend the Prom? Your date will appreciate as much advance notice as possible to prepare for the gala occasion. You don't need a steady to invite. Ask a friend to join you in the fun. Your being there will help make the Prom a success.

Dress For The Girls

When you shop carefully for that just right dress, or if you can create your own, you will have money left for the appropriate accessories. A lovely formal deserves better than every day loafers and a too casual hand bag. You'll be happiest if you plan the proper accessories to complete your ensemble.

Dress For The Boys

Suit yourself, it's accepted to wear either a suit or a tux. Tuxedos come both plain and fancy; the traditional black and white outfits share the stage with muted plaids and bright colors. It is possible to rent the complete outfit including trousers, coat, fancy shirt, vest or cumberband, jewelry and suspenders.

Any of these items may be rented separately, but stop in for a fitting EARLY to take advantage of the wide selection.

Say It With Flowers

Your gal will be delighted to receive flowers, and it will be easier for you to order them if you know a few details, such as....the color of her gown and her preference for a shoulder corsage, nosegay or wrist flowers. If you make arrangements with the florist to deliver them be sure to enclose a card. If you want to bring them to your date when you call for her, flowers stay fresher if they are kept refrigerated. A week's lead time in placing your order with the florist will take care of this "bonus" gesture on your part.

Those Extras

Dinner before the dance, or a supper after can be fun, but don't feel you have to be independently wealthy to dine with your date. Consider....

- *Cook-out, buffet style with all of the gang bringing their "specialties".
- *A candlelight dinner at home for the single or double-daters.

*Dinner at a nearby restaurant. Many places will not take week-end reservations, so try to avoid a long wait and end up missing the highlight of the evening. Plan your dinner so you will arrive at the Prom on time and not miss any of the fun.

*OR....

*Breakfast following the dance for the group at a home where "night owling" is considered fun.

Manners Can Be Fun

No set of rules are essential. Relax, be yourself, and have fun. Let your date know how much you've enjoyed sharing this event. Consideration for the enjoyment of others, and appreciation of the Prom planned for you will make the evening a huge success.
