THE STORY

Eurolania is in danger because the royal treasury is exhausted, and Count von Popova plans to start a revolution assisted by Demetrius Doodledorf and Trombonius Tootletop.

For the time being, however, the populace is distracted by the rose festival. Among the visitors is Darrell Davis, a photographer with motion picture experience, and Percival McPipp, who admits being a great director.

The presence of the great director causes a flutter among the Eurolanians, who would like to be in a movie. McPipp decides to produce a picture dealing with the affairs of an European court, which would naturally include a revolution.

Count von Popova sees a chance for overthrowing the government during the rehearsals. He plots and plans with Demetrius and Trombonius. Fortunately, the plot is foiled!
